

The Mission is God's / Hebrews 3:1

Summary:

God has a plan, it's working, and we get to be a part of it. So, we must look to Jesus—hear His voice—and join Him as a Church to fulfill His mission.

When we choose to do the next kind thing God puts in front of us, He can turn small acts of compassion into movements of hope and healing that change the world.

God's Plan is Working

In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world.

(John 16:33)

Christ has already won the victory. His mission to restore all creation is working—even when we can't see it.

We Are Holy Partners

All this is from God, who reconciled us to Himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation. (2 Corinthians 5:18)

God doesn't just save us from something—He saves us for something. He invites us to become His reconcilers—to bridge the gap between heaven and earth, between faith and daily life.

Let Us Fix Our Attention on Jesus

That phrase—katanoein—means more than a quick glance. It means to fix your gaze until you understand.

Consider the birds of the fields (Matthew 6:26)

Paul calls it living and breathing the mind and heart of God. (Philippians 2:5-8)

We must understand Jesus' vision for the world

Jesus came to restore everything broken. He fed the hungry, healed the sick, embraced the outcast, and called us to do the same. When local churches understand this, they become unstoppable.

See where Jesus is already at work

Only Jesus can open hearts—pastors, mayors, donors, or volunteers. Our job is to notice and join in. We simply walk through the doors He opens.

Listen and follow him to see lasting change

Transformation takes time. We must listen daily for His voice—in our homes, workplaces, and churches—and quiet our hearts to hear His leading.
